Shanin Stoddard from Wing-A-Lings has announced that he is participating in a fundraiser to help the Cicero-North Syracuse Marching Band afford their trip to the Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade.

Boxes of their dry rub spices will be sold online and door to door for $20 dollars. Each box contains 3 full sized bottles of their dry rub spices as well as instructions for how to properly season the chicken with them. For people who do not want to pay full price for the box, the band is offering individual bottles of spices for purchase as well.

C-NS Band Members, Aidan Baylock and Emily Hogan say that the fundraiser is particularly important to them because it's helping to fund them to be part of the parade.

"Every month we have to pay to raise a specific amount so we can all go," Hogan said. "That will cover our cost to go, transportation everything. The whole deal," she added.

Their fundraising efforts are somewhat untraditional but they wanted to offer the community something different and something that they can use, they said and that's why they chose Wing-A-Lings.

"They've been able to help us a lot," Baylock said. "And I think this will really help us raise funds and help get us far," she added.
